have you seen many patients go through acupuncture for renal disease? i've never heard of it being used for this.

neurons found deeper in the brain are involved with restricted allodynia, but it is not certain which.

since it can be affected by other factors, an elevated bun alone is certainly suggestive for kidney dysfunction.